

Note Board Apparatus and Kit

Abstract

A note board apparatus attachable to an object, such as a book, includes a support board and a base sheet adhesively connected to the support board. At least one edge of a plurality of writing sheets is connected to the base sheet, and a clip element is connected to the support board along an edge thereof and configured to releasably connect the support board to an object. A note taking organizational kit includes at least one note board apparatus having a support board and a notepad assembly, and at least one storage unit. The note board apparatus also includes a clip element connected to the support board configured to releasably connect the note board apparatus to an object. At least one divider sheet may also be included, configured to separate multiple note board apparatuses within the storage unit.